

John Moulton

International Longshoreman's Association (ILA Local 970)

John Moulton is a longshoreman and member of the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) at The Port of Virginia. Through his work on the waterfront, John brings a firsthand understanding of marine terminal operations, workplace safety, and the unique challenges of working in an active port environment. His perspective highlights the important role of organized labor in supporting emergency preparedness, first responder familiarization, and collaboration across the maritime community.
