

Captain Eric Faulk serves with the San Diego Fire-Rescue Department, specializing in special operations, hazardous materials response, and advanced training. As the HIRT Captain and Lead SME for Hazmat, MCI, and ICS, he supports complex multi-agency operations involving chemical, radiological, and alternative energy incidents, including lithium-ion battery emergencies.

He has developed and led numerous department training programs, including the Fire Academy, Company Officer Academy, and specialized instruction in Wildland, Large Area Search and Rescue, and Truck Operations. His contributions extend to large-scale initiatives such as system transitions, safety committees, and operational readiness projects.

Captain Faulk is a certified Hazardous Materials Specialist, Fire Officer, and CSTI Instructor.
