

Todd Duke is a 26-year veteran with Resolve Marine and is the General Manager of Compliance Services. In this position he oversees the company's oil spill response program in Alaska and its Salvage and Marine Fire Fighting readiness for OPA-90 across the United States.

He is also a Salvage Master and Marine Fire Officer leading the US Based Salvage and Marine Fire Fighting team to any OPA -90 response in North American Waters.

He has extensive experience in fire suppression and hazmat response. He holds NFPA certifications as a Fire Officer, Instruction, Fire Fighter 3, Marine Fire Fighter and Hazmat Technician.

In the past year he has led the response to two major marine casualties involving damaged lithium-ion energy segments and was one of the salvage masters on the M/V Dali where he supervised the cargo offload, hazmat remediation of the ship, along with the cleanup and disposal of the damaged cargos.